“What a great night we had in London. Fantastic arrangement and fantastic people.”

▲ The host of this year's AIBs on 5 November - the BBC's Matthew Amroliwala

▲ Some of last year's winners

theaibs.tv

This year is the 10th year for the AIBs, the international media excellence awards organised by the Association for International Broadcasting (AIB). There are 15 categories covering factual television, radio and online to showcase outstanding material from programme makers in all parts of the world. This year we have seen a tremendous rise in the number of entries submitted – we've received work from 34 countries that together represent every continent on the planet.

JUDGES

During September and October, our judges will view and listen to the material that has made it through to the short-list. This year too we are delighted to welcome a great number of senior professionals from diverse areas of the broadcasting industry to our international panel, thus ensuring that different cultures and different media markets are represented. We are immensely grateful to all our judges for giving freely of their time and expertise in evaluating the short-listed entries so that the final winner can emerge. And because many of the jurors run channels, they are often encouraged to buy the programming they see for broadcast on their networks. This is another great reason to put your work forward in the annual AIBs.

AWARDS NIGHT

The names of the winners and finalists for the AIBs in 2014 will be kept firmly under wraps until Wednesday 5 November – the day of the AIBs Awards Gala and Dinner. For what has by now become one of the highlights in the international broadcasting calendar, guests from every continent will be joining us in the fabulous performance space of LSO St Luke's in central London. It is a magnificent venue that never ceases to impress and fascinate our guests.

Our host this year is Matthew Amroliwala, a seasoned on-air presenter at the BBC and a familiar face to audiences in the UK and around the world. In September, Matthew becomes the new presenter for the flagship Global programme on BBC World News.

As always, we will have a special guest "in conversation" during the evening, adding to the interest and excitement of the event. And of course we will announce all the winners of the coveted AIBs awards across all categories and present them to the deserving winners.

OUR SUPPORTERS

Running the AIBs is a considerable undertaking for us and we are delighted that this year Eutelsat have signed up as our inaugural sponsor for the 2014 festival. The entire AIB membership and the awards team extend their particular thanks to Eutelsat for contributing to the success of this international competition.

JOIN US

I would like to extend a personal invitation to you and your colleagues to join us for the AIBs awards gala dinner in London on 5 November. I know that you will find it inspirational and rewarding, with excellent networking opportunities and the chance to exchange ideas and knowledge with colleagues from all over the world. And you will also be able to meet some of the world's top programme makers – but reserve your places soon as the event is always a sell-out. It's a date not to be missed - see you in London!
